“ Dear Masters family:

I wish to convey my sincerest condolences to your entire family. Losing a loved one in death is one of the hardest things that anyone will ever have to deal with. There is a great hope held out to us for the future because God promises to bring those we lost back to life by means of a resurrection to a paradise earth, where sickness and death will be no more. I hope this brief message will bring you a measure of comfort in this difficult time.

“ Although I never had the pleasure of meeting Stephen, I have known Lisa for a very long time. And I know how much Lisa loved Stephen and she was the happiest I had seen her in years, which tells me she absolutely adored Stephen a he Adored her too. He gave Lisa a chance to love and be happy again, and for that I'm grateful. I'm praying for Lisa and her family who also loved Stephen dearly and all the Masters family. May God surround you and give you the strength you will need. Valerie Meredith

“ I am floored by this. You're someone that our relationship has always been so easy, I guess from growing up together in a lot of ways and you knowing what i was going through when my family pretty publicly had some really tough stuff to deal with were ways we'd always be connected and we both know how important it was to look out for the other. But I was just saying that I felt like I'd spoken to you recently and was shocked to realize it's been a couple of years. I'm sorry for my part in that. I guess I expected you'd be there when I came back. You were there for me during what became one of the most difficult and challenging life experiences I will ever have. That you stayed with me day after day after day, for weeks, so that my dad could go to work knowing I was in good hands, but really doing it so that I wouldn't be alone, you were made of some of the best things life has to build a good, wonderful, amazing human. Your humanity is just one of so many reasons why everyone who met you liked you and felt safe in your easy presense. I'll always feel honored to have known you and loved you and been known and loved right back by you. Thank you for all the talks and tears and laughs and smiles. Say hi to Phil for me. Love you bud
