“ I just now found out about Ms. Anne's passing. My husband, son and I were neighbors of hers for 8 years, and she was one of the most remarkable people we have ever known. She was always so kind and generous, and we enjoyed going over her house to visit. We have recently moved to Pennsylvania, and we are so sorry that we missed her services. Our sincere condolences to her family...we will miss her greatly.

“ I remember Mrs. Wells with great fondness. I got to know her many years ago when she would come to the basketball games with her daughter Claudia to watch granddaughter BJ cheer. Not a lot of parents came to watch the cheerleaders as it was not a competitive sport. But, there, at most games and all tournaments, was Mrs. Wells cheering the games and the cheerleaders!

Bless you Mrs. Wells!

“ To the family of Mrs. Anne L. Wells,

Blessed be God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of tender mercies and the God of all comfort. (2 Corinthians 1:3)
Much of what we hold dear seems ever at risk, our homes, employment, even our health, however, nothing will hit us as hard as the death of someone we love. The feelings of loss and powerlessness can be overwhelming. King, David of the Bible at 2Samuel 18:33 found grief so heart wrenching that he wanted to die in place of his son. He grieved deeply for his son Absalom. Grief is such a sweeping feeling it removes the familiar, leaving the bereft alone. It is not something we can “just” get over by wanting it so. It is more than an emotion that changes with surrounding circumstances, it lingers and the healing process can be a long one. It is something we never get over but at some point-in time we get use to it and we learn to cope with the change. Grief is something we have to go through to get through it. Take heart you are not left alone, or without hope. The Bible tells us to throw our burdens upon him “and he himself will sustain us. (Psalms 55:22) Draw close to God and he will draw close to you. (James 4:8)
He provides comfort to those asking him, tell him how you are feeling, ask him and he will provide abundantly for you friends and family to comfort you. I pray such ones surround you.
It is very comforting to know about God’s restorative power (Acts 3:21, Revelation 21:4) and by means of the resurrection God can reunite us with our loved ones. What a loving promise found at (John 5:28, 29). Until that time seek comfort from the Scriptures and may God grant you “the power beyond what is normal” to sustain you and your family at this most difficult time. (2Corinthians 4:7)
