“ I had the privilege of meeting Mr. Carl when his son, Carl brought his Dad to the Eastern Shore of Maryland to do some deer hunting. Carl made special preparations for his Dad and his own special blind. Rather than high up in a deer stand, Carl made his Dad an area to sit, camouflaged in the tree line. While I never heard a shot, Mr. Klotz enjoyed the outdoors and spending time with his son, Carl. Carl spent many days off riding the 2 1/2 hour drive to his parents to help his Dad out with things that needed to be done around the house. I believe those efforts, encouraged Mr. Carl to stay here a little longer and certainly were a big help to Mr. Carl. Wonderful memories of sacrifice and times spent together. Who wouldn't be proud of a son like that?###imported-begin##Craig Langrell###imported-end##
