An Angel Here on Earth

By: Albert Agabiti, III

An Angel sent from Heaven is here to bless us now
One day she'll go back home, and we'll have to let go somehow.
Her home is in Heaven and with God she will lay
But know that an Angel looks down on us each and every day.
For when the time God call her, she will answer loud and clear
She will say softly mommy and daddy you have noting at all to fear.
In our mind and in our heart is where she will always be
And letting go won't be easy but at least she will finally be free.
For her time was simply to teach us to love and to be strong,
For no matter what happens here, in Heaven nothing can go wrong.
What may seem like the end, to an Angel is just the start,
For all of us were so fortunate to have one bless our heart.
So don't cry or don't frown, just simply pray and rejoice
For that is when you can truly hear the whisper of an Angel's voice.
For every moment spent with her, was more than anything could be worth

But after all an Angel's place is in Heaven
