“ Death leaves a heartache that no one can heal, but love is stronger than death even though it can't stop it from happening. However, no matter how hard death tries it can't separate people from love. It can't take away our memories either. When someone you love becomes a memory, that memory becomes a treasure. One that you will always have to hold and will never lose. While we are grieving for his passing, Mom, his brothers, and others are all rejoicing at his arrival, happy to see him again.

“ To the family of Mr. Gerald R. Brant,

Blessed be God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of tender mercies and the God of all comfort. (2 Corinthians 1:3)
Much of what we hold dear seems ever at risk, our homes, employment, even our health, however, nothing will hit us as hard as the death of someone we love. The feelings of loss and powerlessness can be overwhelming. King, David of the Bible at 2Samuel 18:33 found grief so heart wrenching that he wanted to die in place of his son. He grieved deeply for his son Absalom. Grief is such a sweeping feeling it removes the familiar, leaving the bereft alone. It is not something we can “just” get over by wanting it so. It is more than an emotion that changes with surrounding circumstances, it lingers and the healing process can be a long one. It is something we never get over but at some point-in time we get use to it and we learn to cope with the change. Grief is something we have to go through to get through it. Take heart you are not left alone, or without hope. The Bible tells us to throw our burdens upon him “and he himself will sustain us. (Psalms 55:22) Draw close to God and he will draw close to you. (James 4:8)
He provides comfort to those asking him, tell him how you are feeling, ask him and he will provide abundantly for you friends and family to comfort you. I pray such ones surround you.
It is very comforting to know about God’s restorative power (Acts 3:21, Revelation 21:4) and by means of the resurrection God can reunite us with our loved ones. What a loving promise found at (John 5:28, 29). Until that time seek comfort from the Scriptures and may God grant you “the power beyond what is normal” to sustain you and your family at this most difficult time. (2Corinthians 4:7)
