Jerry and I graduated high school together in 56. We had been in band together and in 2005 we reconnected thru the internet. Jerry was my go-to person when I needed someone to check something out. Always dependable, Jerry was great friend and I truly miss him.

“ My dear friend Kymmie, so sorry that Daddy has passed he was/is your rock. His spirit will guide you and your sister through the rest of your days. Daddy was a quiet man and when I first met him I sat with him and I did all the talking, daddy did all the smiling and nodding. Hummm, I thought...I wonder if he likes me?? Well, daddy liked everyone. He never had a bad word to say (if he said anything at all).

One day I was at the house with Kymmie, we had just returned from dropping my honey off at the airport, and when I came down the stairs I lost my footing and landed on my tailbone. I saw stars and could not move. Daddy heard that noise and came running! He probably never ran that fast in his life!! I will never forget him standing at the bottom of the steps waiting to see that I was OK.

People touch us everyday. Some we learn from some just come and go. Daddy showed me how much he loved his life and his children just by watching his eyes. I watched him interact with Kymmie and I just knew he was thankful. I saw a humbled man, content with what life had to offer him.

His strength and presence will be missed but he will always be with us. May you remain blessed by his life.

Love and prayers,
Eileen Carlos

“ I met Jerry August 1986. Jerry was my best buddy at work. He was a great travel companion and always had my back. When we traveled down south, he taught me the "proper" way to eat Grits! To this day, I still fix them the same way. There were times that he would play a practical joke, but so serious you never knew what was real or not. We both had two daughters that we shared stories about. The good and bad stories we could tell the world, but never did. That's what friends are for.

Jerry never forgot my birthday. After several battles with cancer, he taught me that the more birthdays you have, doesn't mean you're old; it means you're alive.

I will miss you, Jerry. Time is flying, and with what time I have left, I will never forget you, my friend...
