“ I also share memories of MOS school his love for the Reebok classics and the many colors he had we hung out a ton and it's insane I still remember him being late for formation and company funny sees him and says hurry up slim shady it was rather funny. Joe was an amazing soul and I remember the stories of his son Cameron to this day till we meet again.

“ Joe was my close, dear friend dating all the way back to 6th grade, he was one of the first people to help me understand that it was and is okay to be who you are (and this is no easy task for anyone, let alone an 11 year old boy.) I haven't seen or spoken to Joe in many years but I never forgot the little blonde headed boy with the bowl hair cut and endearing overbite. I am saddened and full of anguish to see that his life was cut short, and his son will not grow up with his father; I wish his family the best and want them to know that even as a young man, Joe was very special, kind hearted and good...he was a good person and will be missed.

“ Joe and I shared almost every minute of every day together from the first day of Marine Corps Boot Camp on September 16, 2002 until I deployed to Iraq on February 23, 2004. We lived together, worked together, and trained together. We grew from boys to Marines together; a distinction I shared with no one else but him. We were two people from two totally different worlds who grew to be best friends and brothers, for better or worse, side by side. I will miss you dearly my friend. Until we meet again.

“ Semper Fi Joe. You will and always forever will be my brother. It was an honor to serve with you in our beloved Marine Corps. We had great times in Camp Lejeune and in Iraq together, believe it or not. You always kept me laughing and when times got me down, you were always able to make things seem not so bad.

“ Joe is the son of my cousin Joe, so I guess my cousin once removed? We didn't know each other well, but every time I did seem him over the years, we clicked. We were family and we could have been friends, despite our age difference. I feel so bad that he's gone, and that his family is so broken-hearted. I wish my kids had had a chance to know him.

Rest in peace Joe.
