“ I remember my Grandma when I was young and running around Mt. Holly (between 6-11 yr.s old). After crossing the Trussle to explore the woods all day, I could stop at Grandmas house where she always had cabbage and potatoes cooking on the stove and would make sure I had a fully belly before going home. Grandma never minded giving me a quarter, or fifty cent to play a round of Pac-Man, or get a piece of candy. She had these little dogs. I don't remember them all, but I do remember "Trudy" & "Rusty", and boy did she love those dogs. I remember times we were all together and everybody was young and laughing (good times), when my aunt Lee, aunt Irma, My dad (Denver), uncle Perry, and uncle Dave, all lived on the same block, and times were good, and simpler. I ended up moving to Fla. when I was 12, and wasn't able to visit as much as I wanted and we lost touch, but I will remember the good times just laughing at our own dumb jokes, but happy and together. I will miss you and I love you, and you will always be in my thoughts.....

Reginald and Dorothy Stevenson share in many fond memories of Julianey. Reggie has told me about how protective her brothers were, how they chased the boys away when she was young. There were many good times and sad times when she lost her two sons Perry and Denver. We are remembering good times and not how she was ill for so many years. We are sorry for her children that are left and we love you very much.

“Man.. I always knew I wasn't going to take your death lightly, but I didn't think it was gonna affect me the way it did. The fact that I didn't get to see you before you left us to the gates of heaven really kills me. It makes me wish that I picked up a shift on my day off just to come see you. It was an honor caring for you for 3 years. I've grown so attached to you like you were my own grandmother, and blood couldn't make us closer. ❤️ from the times you would look at me, smile so hard, and say "there she is. I love you." To the times you use to yell "get out of Here. leave me alone." I will always cherish every moment with you. My kids will definitely know about you. I love you grandma, ALWAYS & FOREVER. #RestInPeace

It's a shame that you feel regret, as far as I'm concerned there were numerous opportunities for you and your children to see their great-grandmother. She was a beautiful person with a big heart and she would have loved your little girls.
