“ I met Kimmie last year, not long after her diagnosis. Since my husband had been fighting cancer for awhile he and I took Kimmie under our wing. Ed loved Kimmie from the first night they met and talked and so did I. Kimmie's feisty attitude and big heart made her light up every time we talked. We talked about chemo...the side effects...the fears...Kimmie became a part of our heart...the whole family really. When I lost Ed, he told me to make sure Kimmie continued to fight...and she gave it her all. I am going to miss you sweet lady...I love you!

“ Kim had a light blue ford escort and we stopped at a friends house and i asked her if i could drive up their long driveway. Of course she let me. I had no idea how to drive. We were laughing so hard. We did not stay in touch after she graduated. But she was a good friend for a short time. And that memory of the car i will always have. RIP kim! You were a great person and always happy
