“Wow! Never thought I would find myself on this page for my cousin, Linda G. Nelson. What can I say? Linda was real with her feelings, emotions, life, parents, friends, family, and especially, more importantly, her children and grandkids. My heart goes out to my family, Linda's daughters, Quamillah Nelson, Shakira Taylor, and Ronii Nelson. I am so sorry for your loss.

May the memories of your mother continue to impact your lives, inspiring you to achieve as if she were still here. She fought for you in life, and her spirit will continue to fight for you in death. I believe she will be the angel that watches over you always. Whatever plan Jehovah had for her life will continue to be granted into your lives, your children's lives, and their children. She served well, and Jehovah will continue to bless your family.

Linda and I grew up close, very close. Our family did everything together all our lives until the loss of her parents, my uncle, and aunt. Linda decided to move away. Her father and mother were my aunt and uncle. All I know is, if you wanted real, then you got it from Linda. She was everything in one bag—tough; don't make her mad. Funny and made you laugh. Professional when it came to her business. She loved to travel, do things, and took no mess. We still kept in touch. I loved her then; I love her now. I will always carry her in my heart of hearts. I always say have no 'if I could or would have.

Psalm 121
