“ My grandfather was not only a warrior during his battle with pancreatic cancer but was also a loving father who provided endless amounts of love, joy, and wisdom to his kids and grandchildren. When my grandfather had nothing to do in his spare time, he always had his eyes buried in books and valued learning as an important part of life. This quality my grandfather had inspires me to become just like him and if I ever come across any success in the future in my life or career, it will dedicated to my grandfather for never failing to become an inspirational role model for his children and his grandchildren to look up to.

Te Quiero Mucho Pa ❤️
