“ A Letter to my Shaun

My beautiful boy Shaun,

Words will never be able to express the hurt and sadness I feel today.

You have been my world since the day you were born. You have literally changed my life

Just your presence and free spirit lit up every place you were.

The song in your heart was loud

I can't remember one day that you didn't smile or how your laugh that sometimes had no reason, could change the mood of any room

You serenaded us daily with your favorite songs and always reminded us that things would be okay.

You were my alarm clock most mornings and my calm in the evenings that kept me grounded and mindful of how simple life was on so many days.

We fought some great battles you and I, through education systems, Special Needs associations, and nursing personnel, all that changed the course of many processes and procedures forever. I wouldn't settle for less than the best for you, my Shaun.

I have done all I can to ensure you were happy and had everything you needed in this life, and I rest knowing that God will take care of you in the next life.

Your spirit was light, and your heart always filled with joy,

I know that God has called you home to be in his loving arms, where you can sing for him and share your light and joy.

Although my heart is broken and many days will be long and tearful, I will see you again.

“ Veronica, Jazmine and Jarrett. My heart aches for you all in this sad time. If I could offer some levity. My sister had special needs, loved Michael Jackson and Disney. I promise when Shaun rolled up to the Pearly Gates he was greeted with bear hugs, laughing, singing and some form of moonwalking. Please know Shaun has new friends in Mandy and her gang watching over him until you are reunited.

“ My dearest Shaun, God decided to take you home from us and though we may not know why, we rest in His assurance that He always know best. In all the years we have shared, you have taught me many things. Patience, resilience, kindness, perseverance, to appreciate life, to open myself and let others in. You loved without boundaries and contingencies, you always had a song in your heart and in your lips. I have no words to describe/tell how I miss you. Thanks for loving me as I have loved you. Rest in peace Shaun and know that you were/are loved by everyone you left behind
Pat
