“ I don't think Sue held much truck with the women's lib idea that women should be strong, resourceful and self-reliant – for it never occurred to Sue to be anything else.

Always energetic, she took on obstacles with determination, as with the military bureaucracy, or simply ignored them (as with German Autobahn speed limits.) Effective as a public servant, fair as a supervisor, and unwaveringly supportive and compassionate as a friend.

Aunt Sue (or Suzie-Q) will be missed by many, from multiple countries, organizations and generations. Our family has lost a long-time friend, but wish Sue's family all the best, as they cherish the life and memories of Sue Warren.
